

THE 2ND WAR LOAN DRIVE IS ON!

It's Ten Minutes to Midnight!

Wake Up, Americans... Your Country's Most Fateful Hour Is Near

THE hour when the final die is cast, when decisive victory hangs in the balance. The hour which will decide the future of you and your children... a future of joyous freedom or a future of endless servitude.

Yes, it is ten minutes to midnight. And when the first stroke of that fateful hour begins to sound, it will be too late to throw your weight into the fight. The time to do that is NOW.

Now, when your dollars can keep the production lines humming. Now, when your dollars can buy the tanks and guns and planes and ships our soldiers need to fight a winning war... the only kind of a war we can afford to fight. Now, while there are still ten minutes before midnight.

Your country is asking you to lend your dollars in greater amount than ever before. It is asking for 13 billions of dollars extra this month... 13 billions for the weapons of war to make sure that it is our side which dictates the peace.

If we do not win, the money you fail to lend now will be worse than useless to you. If we win, as we must, the money you lend now will be returned with interest... for you to spend on the good things of life... for you to enjoy in a free and safe world.

So dig down, Americans. Answer the challenge by buying War Loan securities this month with every idle dollar you have except what you need for the barest necessities of life.

Don't wait for the War Loan Volunteer. Beat the gun by going to your bank, investment dealer, broker, Post Office, or bond booth today.

Have your money in your fist... the first that can deliver the knockout blow to the Axis. But hurry...

For it is ten minutes to midnight...

The hour that can strike the knell of doom—or the blessed song of freedom.

Your dollars can call the tune.

Hungry Leningrad Defied Hunger Force

City Failed to Crack Under Longest Siege of War.

MOSCOW.—Leningrad, former Soviet capital and the second largest city of the Soviet Union, with a normal population of 3,000,000, failed to crack under the longest siege of this war. beleaguered between two Nazi lines since August 21, 1941, the defenders of Leningrad endured such frightful conditions that Nazi propagandists referred to it as "a doomed city."

Last winter the only supply road to the city was across the ice of Lake Ladoga. The civilian defenders ran short of food, and malnutrition took a terrible toll, but the defenses held. Bombs fell by day and by night, and long-range artillery shelled the city from the heart of the city, but neither the Red army lines nor the civilian population cracked.

In one year of the siege, the Nazi high command aligned 52 infantry divisions, four motorized divisions and four tank divisions against the city, according to Pravda, the Communist party newspaper. The Germans brought up 8,000 big guns, 10-100 machine-guns, 4,500 mortars, 1,000 tanks and 1,000 planes.

Workmen dropped their tools in factories and took up rifles to aid the Red army. Women and children replaced the workers to keep the industrial wheels turning. Leningrad's shops continued to produce machine tools and war material not only for the Leningrad area but for other regions.

The Nazis' "greatest act of vandalism" in Russia, occurred in the Leningrad area when the Germans destroyed the Palace of Peterhof on the Gulf of Finland.

New Cage Helps Pigeons
Fly News From High Up

WASHINGTON.—Because a homing pigeon's ceiling is about 10,000 feet, the army signal corps has developed a cage with an automatic opening device which will automatically be dropped from scout planes flying at tremendous heights.

Carrier pigeons are being used increasingly to send messages from reconnaissance planes forced to keep radio silence. Above 10,000 feet, however, the air is too thin for the birds to fly.

So the signal corps rigged up a canvas-covered wire cage in which the pigeon is put before it is dropped overboard. The cage falls to any desired height before it opens automatically.

Pigeons also are carried to send messages back to the base in case the planes are forced down. Commandos and paratroopers operating behind enemy lines also use them instead of radio, which would give their position to the enemy. The birds can carry a 1,000-word message on a photograph film.

Mark on "Mushes" Stickers
Matches Verre in Bible

COLUMBUS, OHIO.—Biblical interpretations were placed on the "Rev. 10-1-42" notation which appeared on gasoline-station stickers here.

OFA officials said it was a printer's mark, meaning "revised October 1, 1942."

But biblical students said it could stand for Revelation, 10th Chapter, verses 1 to 42.

The second verse of the 10th chapter of Revelation reads: "And he had in his hand a little open book."

That's the mystic, they claim, referring to the filing station these days with his ration book.

Lights of New York
by L. L. STEVENSON

Backfire: The order banning pleasure driving along the eastern seaboard gave pause to six well-to-do residents of a nearby commuting community since they motored to a nearby town to play badminton each Sunday morning. But after reading the regulations carefully and taking counsel among themselves, they set out as usual. Sure enough they were stopped by a motorcycle officer who wanted to know where they were going. Being prepared for such a question, the driver replied: "To church."

The officer nodded but instead of waving them on their way, asked, "What church?" After seconds of silence, one of the six, having studied the cop's countenance, answered: "The Catholic church."

"Okay," announced the officer, "I'll give you an escort."

He took them right up to the door and the sextet not only attended mass in black and sneakers but also paid for unused badminton courts.

Bowwow: New York is the "dog-gest town" in the country. Lyn Murray declared in Toots Shurt's the other evening. He was referring to the canine population and gave as a basis for his opinion the fact that he had lived in several sections of Manhattan and in each had found that about 35 per cent of all apartment house dwellers owned dogs. Riverside Drive and Sutton Place are the city's greatest gathering places for dog exercisers. On pleasant days he counted as many as 50 men and women siring pooches on the East river docks. Dogs serve to break down the New Yorker's well known reserve, he supplemented. It's possible to reside in a New York apartment house for years without knowing who lives next door. But not if dogs are owned. Many neighbors have become firm friends because of simultaneous dog walkings.

Thawing Out: Many New Yorkers are hoping devoutly that the rest of the winter will be as mild as the first part. The reason? There are apartment houses which, for one reason or another, have not changed over to coal with the result that occupants, particularly housewives, that remain some all day, do much shivering.

Some houses turn off the heat entirely for that part of the day when most tenants are at business. There are those who hold that heatless homes play a large part in his increase in business in neighborhood movie houses. Motion picture theaters, air-cooled in summer, are well-heated in winter because they either have coal burning plants or buy steam which is made with coal. And there are 1,068 movie houses in Manhattan.

Feed: Note that muskrat meat is finding its way to New York tables where it would have been scorned in the past. The current meat shortage of course is the cause. But I never could understand why there should be aversion to the flesh of these aquatic animals, unless it should be their name. As a matter of fact, the muskrat is one of the cleanest animals in the world. Not only is it a strict vegetarian but it washes every morsel carefully before eating it. The meat is almost as cooking muskrat—the muskrat glands merely have to be removed. Tasted muskrat with Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Wright, of Wilmington, Del.

Religion Gets Him

Into Draft Trouble

COEUR D'ALENE, IDAHO.—Because his religion forbade the pricking of the skin—even so much as a finger prick, to draw blood for an army test—Carroll Pratt Taylor, 20, got in trouble with his draft board. He was arrested by FBI agents on a charge of draft evasion when he did not report for a physical examination.

The goal of the Second War Loan drive is 13 billion dollars. That is just about one fifth of the estimated increase of the Public Debt for the fiscal year of 1943.

Bonds Today

To Hasten Victory

No American wants this war to go on minute beyond the time we can bring it to a victorious end. To hasten that victory—to save possibly the lives of millions of our boys on our far flung fronts—is imperative that every American do his part in the Second War Loan. There is no investment to fit every purse. The most you can do is little enough compared with the sacrifice offered by our boys in service. They give their lives—you lend your money.

From where I sit...
by Joe Marsh

Charlie Jenkins writes me from down at camp. "Dear Joe something mighty well happened to me on my last day's leave. I'm standin' on the corner, not knowin' anybody in town, when a stranger says 'hello, soldier-how'd you like a chicken dinner at home with me and the wife?'"

"Well, it turns out they were the kind of folks who couldn't do enough to help out soldiers. They'd invited two other fellows and just as soon as we're introduced the lady brings us a glass of beer before dinner."

"We had a fine dinner, talked till ten. Honest, Joe, I'll never forget their hospitality. Make me feel good fighting for people like that."

"Thought you might like to hear what kind of fellows we got in this army of ours, and how they like to enjoy themselves when they get a chance to."
